Special Guest:

The First Lady of Idaho, Patricia Kempthorne

Featured Speaker:

David Litts, OD Managing Director at the Suicide Prevention Resource Center and former Special Advisor to the U.S. Surgeon General for Suicide Prevention. He will be the presenter for Suicide Prevention 101.

Track Descriptions:

Four separate, different and concurrent training tracks will target professionals in mental health, suicide survivors, school personnel, clergy, faith-based workers, and law enforcement. Any attendee is invited to attend the track of their choice. Each person must sign up for a specific track.

Pre-Conference Workshop

Survivor Support Group Facilitation

Presenter: Iris Bolton, MA.

You are encouraged to attend this pre-conference session if you would like to learn more about leading survivor support groups. Survivors attending this session must be at least (1) year from their loss. There is no extra charge for attending this workshop. You may attend this training even if you do not intend to lead a group in the future.

Faith-Based Prevention

Effectively Responding to Suicide

Presenter: Father Charles Rubey, founder of LOSS (Loving Outreach to Survivors of Suicide) and Associate Director of Programs of Catholic Charities of Chicago.

You are encouraged to attend this track if you are a member of the clergy, a funeral director or work in a faith-based agency. Father Rubey will discuss suicide from a religious perspective and how to assist people in a faith-based setting.

Law Enforcement Prevention

Working to Change the Mindset of First Responders

Presenter: James Earle, PhD, Past Chairman of the Suicide Prevention Coalition for the State of Colorado, retired FBI Special Agent and suicide survivor.

You are encouraged to attend this track if you are a coroner, EMT, other first responder or work in law enforcement or corrections.

Survivor Support

Postvention as Prevention

Presenter: Iris Bolton, Director of The Link's National Resource Center for Suicide Prevention and Aftercare and suicide survivor.

You are encouraged to attend this track if you are a mental health or health care professional, a suicide survivor or someone who is concerned about suicide survivors. Using lecture, role play and group interaction, Iris Bolton will differentiate between grief following suicide and any other death, discuss the process of healing, present options for assisting survivors and discuss specific issues that confront survivors of suicide.

School-Based Prevention—Creating a Culture of Gatekeepers in Our Schools

Presenter: Dennis Dunn, MA, High school principal in Kenai, Alaska.

You should attend this track if you work in a school or work with youth. Mr. Dunn will share his experience working with at-risk youth in a lively interactive training on how to create a culture of gatekeepers in our schools. You will participate in a student panel discussion focusing on the realities of students.

"Visit www.spanidaho.org for more information about the presenters and their presentations."
